

Waterpark

Friday, 02 September 2011 19:00

It's a hot muggy Saturday afternoon and I feel like exploring so the family is off biking to check out where the railway path turned bike trail leads to off Anderson road. Two kilometers in we discover it stops at a dead end probably somewhere short of Hwy 417. With Hazel practically falling asleep on the third wheel we take the safer route back and stop at A&J for a water break before Aline directs us to a fantastic public water spout park. Kids spend a good half hour running through the jets and cooling off. Total distance round trip was 21 km and it took us 1:08:50.