

Drawing time is becoming much more interesting.

I successfully identified a pig Sam had drawn this weekend. It even had ears and two little nostrils inside a circle nose!

And with a little encouragement Hazel is finally moving away from drawing just the people she knows. This morning as I headed off to work she gave me her latest offering: a one-eyed monster.